

Ticket Information

■ Ticket Validity Period

- Tickets purchased for a trip of up to 100 operating kilometers are valid only on the date of purchase. Tickets purchased for a trip of 101 kilometers or more are valid for the periods shown below.

Up to 200 km	Up to 400 km	Up to 600 km	Up to 800 km	Up to 1000 km
2 days	3 days	4 days	5 days	6 days

* Trip of 1001 km or more will have the validity period extended by one day for every 200 km.

- Quick formula for determining the validity period
 $A \text{ km} \div 200 \text{ km} + 1 \text{ day} = \text{validity period}$ (If there are any figures below the decimal point, round up to a whole number.)
- The validity period for round-trip tickets is twice that for one-way tickets.
- If a ticket's validity period is exceeded while the passenger is on board the train, travel may proceed to the final station on the ticket as long as the passenger does not make any stopovers en route.

■ Stopovers

- Making a stopover means going out through a ticket gate of a station en route within the ticketed travel area.
- Stopovers are not permitted with the below kinds of ticket.

- One “Adult” and one “Child” passenger together or two “Child” passengers together may use one sleeper berth.

Infant and Baby Fares and Fees

“Infant” and “Baby” passengers can generally travel without charge, but they need a “Child” ticket in the following cases:

■ Special Exceptions to Fare Calculation

<Special Exception in Case of Passenger on Train that Passes Through Junction Station Without Stopping>

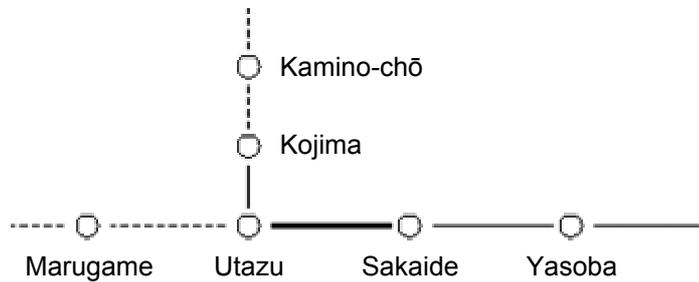

- This applies to travel on line sections that diverge at one of the stations on the left-hand side of the pairs of stations shown below. In the case of a passenger who is traveling from one of those diverging line sections to the other diverging line section, when the train passes through the left-hand station without stopping, so that the passenger must proceed to the next stop and then double back over the same line section between the left-hand station and the right-hand station in order to get off the train at the left-hand station and change to the other diverging line, then the distance in kilometers doubled back over that same line section will not be counted in the fare. (Commuter passes are excluded.) However, stopovers are not permitted within that line section where the passenger doubles back. (Passengers who make a stopover on that doubled-back section are required to pay the fare for travel on that section.)

Utazu—Marugame	Tadotsu—Marugame	Ikenotani—Shōzui	Sako—Tokushima
Tsukuda—Awa-Ikeda	Mukaibara—Iyoshi	Kita-Uwajima—Uwajima

<Special Exception for Passage Outside Line Section of Specified Diverging Line Sections>

➤ In the case of travel over the following line sections, the distance in kilometers on the line section marked in bold, which is between the stations within square brackets ([]), will not be counted in the fare. Stopovers are not permitted within that line section.

◆ Passage between stations beyond Utazu (in the Marugame direction) and stations beyond Kojima [Utazu-Sakaide]
